The maps and digital data products were compiled from data in a variety of digital and paper sources. The data is subject to errors, omissions, and limitations. If you have questions or comments about this map or its data, please contact the Illinois State Geological Survey. The survey is part of the Illinois Natural Resources Sustainability Institute of the University of Illinois. This map is available for use at no cost. Contact the Illinois State Geological Survey for information about obtaining background map data for this map. These data are intended to be used for information purposes only and not for navigational or engineering purposes, or any other purposes demanding greater accuracy and reliability. Use of these data in the map is subject to the limitations and exclusions described in the disclaimer and map legend. A full color version of this map is available online at the Illinois State Geological Survey website. The Indiana area shown is based on the Illinois Natural Resources Sustainability Institute of the University of Illinois. The data used in this map were compiled from a variety of public standards of the Illinois State Geological Survey.